- Do you want to live life more fully, more authentically and more meaningfully, right down to the core of your existence?
- Do you want to make a greater difference and contribution through your everyday involvement?
- Do you want to feel more productive, more present, purposeful, satisfied and inspired by your life?

These are the fundamental questions covered by Andro Donovan in Motivate Yourself: Get the Life You Want, Find Purpose and Achieve Fulfilment - a thorough, practice-based book for business professionals, entrepreneurs and individuals who are asking themselves: Is this it? Where am I going? What's my purpose? Do I feel fulfilled? What next?

The thinking behind Motivate Yourself is grounded in Donovan's twenty years of working with top-level executives, who, whilst successful on the level of career achievements, still yearn to be more fully engaged and satisfied.

Her book is a step-by-step guide which shares proven principles that help readers find purpose and fulfilment by using techniques to pro-actively design their life with the end-goal in mind, determining in advance the outcomes they desire and path to get there.

"The need for personal development often starts with a niggling feeling, deep down, that something isn't quite right," says Donovan. "Sometimes it can be hard to put your finger on. But, there the feeling is, trying to make itself known."
